Worship — as a — Lifestyle, Not Just a Song!

God is serious about worship. In Exodus, He devoted seven chapters (25–31) to instructions for building the Tabernacle and six more (35–40) to describe Israel's obedience in carrying them out. This shows how deeply He cared about their worship.

When people entered the courtyard, they were struck by the gleaming gold and colorful curtains (Exodus 26:1, 31–37). The Altar of Burnt Offering (27:1–8) and the Water Basin (30:17–21) reminded them of the cost of forgiveness. Inside the Tabernacle stood the Lampstand (25:31–40), Table of Bread (25:23–30), Altar of Incense (30:1–6), and the Ark of the Covenant (25:10–22), each rich with meaning.

These furnishings were not empty rituals; they were living pictures of God's relationship with His people and the reminder of the presence of God!

God may not give us detailed blueprints for worship today as He gave Israel, but our worship is no less significant. True worship is not confined to songs—it is the offering of our whole lives to Him. It is not a performance. It begins in the heart much before the first chord is played.

The most powerful worship moments often flow from genuine intimacy with God. Think of David: before he was king, he was a shepherd worshipping in the fields. His songs weren't polished for an audience but poured out for the Lord. That's why in spite of all his faults; God considered him "a man after His own heart." That authenticity is what God desires from us.

Intimacy can be developed only by spending time in God's presence. If you are intimate, you will know the heart of God. Then spontaneous worship will flow from your heart...you are in sync with the heart of God. Then, worship is not measured by the beauty of our songs or the excellence of our music and singing, but by the posture of our hearts and the obedience of our lives.

It is living in continual surrender - whether in the sanctuary or at work or in our homes. When worship becomes our lifestyle, every moment becomes sacred, and our lives become a testimony that glorifies God.

Just as Israel's Tabernacle pointed to Christ, our daily choices, attitudes, and actions should point others to Him as now, we are the Tabernacles carrying the Spirit of God.

"God is spirit, and those who worship Him must worship in spirit and truth."
